

WHY DO WE STORYBOARD?

When planning and implementing a project, it is important to set goals and reflect on the learning process. It also allows for us to stay accountable for our time and adjust our goals based on how we meet our project milestones. Think of your project as if it were a story. Plan each phase of your project as if you were planning out the plot of a story from beginning to end!

WHAT IS A MILESTONE?

A milestone is a major marker in your project and it is how we determine the goals that we want to meet throughout the project.

For example, the easiest way to determine milestones is by weeks within the project. If we are conducting a quarter-long project, then we could potentially have 8 milestones, one for each week in the quarter. The first milestone met would be having the entry-event of the project completed, such as having your a project planner submitted and reviewed. Your final milestone would then potentially how you plan to go public with your project.

Documenting Milestones and Goal Setting

HOW DO WE STORYBOARD?

When planning a storyboard, you need to think about the major milestones in your project that are important to meet. In other words, what goals must you set for yourself in order to complete those milestones.

You do not have to have every detail planned out right away, that is part of the learning process.

Create an outline and update your storyboard along the way. Create questions and tasks week to week that you can make your goal to complete, then show us how you accomplished them!
